Walk with Vala to the Closest Water Source in Her Community

Did you know that every day in other parts of the world, girls walk 3 or more miles to collect water for their family and livestock?

When children spend hours collecting water they don't get to go to school with their friends! But giving families close access to clean water allows them to attend school and have time to play with their friends!

Many CHILDREN around the WORLD don't have access to nutritious FOOD or CLEAN water. This makes going to SCHOOL hard and LEARNING even more difficult. When they are HUNGRY, it is hard to focus. Without close ACCESS to clean water, children can become SICK preventing them from attending school. With your help, we provide them with NUTRITIOUS food and clean WATER!

A Note for Parents

Our heart in designing this activity book was to provide you with a tool that sparks conversations with your little ones. We hope you will be able to take these activities and have meaningful discussions that allow you to share your heart for serving others around the world. The reality is that engaging our children in serving others looks different for each child. It's why we don't provide a lot of answers here. But ultimately, the hope is that through the conversations you have with your littles, you are able to help steward their gifts in such a way that they can use them to serve others.

Here are some amazing ways we have been able to engage our children in serving others around the world.

- Take them to the store to fill a food box to be donated at a local food pantry.
- Make paintings, bracelets to sell to raise money.
- Host a bake sale to raise funds towards drilling a water well in Asia.
- Take them to volunteer in their community.
- Look for family serving opportunities during the holidays like Angel Tree Tags or Holiday Fun Runs that benefit local causes.

We are so grateful for all that you do to help at-risk children around the world. We couldn't do this without you.

Blessings,
The SOS Team
